

Ms. Cindy Mah is the Director of the Global Scholarship Programs (GSP) division at the Institute of International Education (IIE) in New York, one of the largest and oldest not-for-profit organizations committed to advancing international education and access to education worldwide. Her division focuses on private-sector engagements to create scholarship funding opportunities and programs to develop leadership abilities and competencies to thrive in a global workplace. She leads the division to provide a full range of program management services for clients that include the GE Foundation, Cargill, Rolex, New York University, and the Stephen A. Schwarzman Education Foundation, among many others.

Over her fourteen years at IIE, Ms. Mah developed specific expertise in launching new initiatives and building, training and managing teams that are globally dispersed, leveraging IIE's extensive network of partners and stakeholders to build connections between and across multiple sectors and industries. Most recently, she has assembled teams to implement outreach and selection activities for exciting new initiatives by IIE's clients, including New York University's Abu Dhabi campus, and the Schwarzman Scholars program, a new one-year Master's Degree at Tsinghua University in Beijing. She works to build capacity in individuals and teams through delivering training and facilitating workshops, with a focus on effective collaboration, continuous learning and innovation.

Ms. Mah. holds a B.A. in East Asian Languages and Area Studies from Rutgers University.
